FAMILY FUN

JINX McDONALD INTERIOR DESIGNS

To foster game-playing and puzzle-doing with their children and grandchildren—in lieu of screen time—these owners purposely included a game room in their Naples condominium. The space inside the home—designed in a clean, current, and bold style—includes a game table with comfy upholstered chairs. Natural cane and black bookcases provide storage and display space for games, books, barware, family photos, decor, and indoor plants. “I think it is important for homes to foster gathering and playtime,” says Minka McDonald, interior designer and president at Jinx McDonald Interior Designs. “We hung a cool light fixture above the game table to provide good lighting, which is critical, and added some funk to the space.” (jinxmcdonald.com)

CONTEMPORARY RETREAT

FINDING SANCTUARY BY LISA KAHN DESIGNS

Because her client loves to host friends and family, the game room in this stylish Port Royal home is the main living space, explains Lisa Kahn, lead designer and founder at Finding Sanctuary by Lisa Kahn Designs. The open layout, softened by a coastal color palette, accommodates many people and various activities. It is the home's hub. “What made the design of this game room unique is that it also functions as an entertaining space,” notes Kahn. “To accommodate both intimate and larger groups, we provided the client with design solutions that opened the space up, allowing both to use the space comfortably. Elements, including the oversize floor-to-ceiling windows, a raised seating platform, a glass room divider, a light color palette, and an airy, contemporary design, all came together to create a space that is both elevated and functional.” (lisakahndesigns.com)

OLD FLORIDA CHARM

ROMANZA INTERIOR DESIGN

These clients love to entertain in their Talis Park home and, between them, have loads of siblings, nieces, and nephews. The relaxed space includes extensive millwork. All wall space is cloaked in embossed vinyl wallpaper in a grayish and sage green hue, complementing the room's painted wood. Artwork in the space was selected by the home's interior designer, Melissa Allen, senior designer at Romanza Interior Design. “This room happens to be one of my favorite places,” says Allen. “I call it a place, as it is a destination, a room that is not found in every home. It is extremely unique, inviting, and classic.” (romanza.com)
